Minor coastal/tidal flooding impacts are possible along parts of the east coast of England late Friday and through Saturday morning. However, the overall flood risk is VERY LOW for the next five days.

Specific Areas of Concern Map 1: Friday 26 and Saturday 27 October.

Likelihood LOW

Assessment of flood risk

Coastal/Tidal

The coastal/tidal flood risk is VERY LOW for the next five days.

Localised minor coastal/tidal flooding impacts are possible on the Friday evening and Saturday morning high tides along parts of the east coast of England. This is due to the potential for a large surge and large waves coinciding with these high tides. See coastline A in Specific Areas of Concern Map 1.

Minor coastal/tidal flooding impacts are also possible, but not expected, around other parts of the North Sea coast, such as the north Kent coast.

Large waves are expected to affect parts of the north-east coast of England again during late Monday and Tuesday with some over-topping possible very locally, however any impacts are expected to be minimal.

Rivers

The river flood risk is VERY LOW for the next five days.

Surface water

The surface water flood risk is VERY LOW for the next five days.

Groundwater

The groundwater flood risk is VERY LOW for the next five days.
